TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This is a public and mail bid auction conducted by Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. (CNG). Bidding in the auction constitutes acceptance of the following terms and conditions.

1. The property listed in this catalogue is offered for sale by CNG for itself and as agents for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to determine the opening price, set bidding increments, vary the order of the auction, reopen bidding in the case of a dispute, and withdraw any lot before the close of the sale.

2. All lots are subject to a 10 % Buyer's fee on the hammer price.

3. All coins are guaranteed genuine and as described. Grading is a subjective art. Adjectival descriptions are the opinion of the cataloguer, and no warranty is expressed or implied. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale and lots purchased by floor bidders may not be returned for any reason except authenticity. All claims of misdescription, except claims regarding authenticity, must be made within 5 days of receipt of material. Estimates are intended as a guide only and not as a statement of opinion of value.

4. Terms are for cash, with invoices being due and payable immediately upon receipt. Interest of 1.5% per month, from the date of the auction, shall be payable on invoices not settled within 30 days of the sale date. Payment by check must be made in either US ($) or British (£) funds and drawn on an United States or British bank. All successful bidders outside of North America and the United Kingdom will be charged an additional $15 fee for bank charges. Visa and Mastercard (Access) may be used to pay your bill; however, a 3.5% surcharge is made for the use of a credit card.

5. Bidders not known to us must provide us with satisfactory credit references and/or pay a deposit as determined at CNG's discretion before bidding. Minors are forbidden from bidding without a parent's signature on the bid sheet. CNG may require payment in full from any bidder prior to delivery of lots. Title does not pass until lots are paid in full.

6. Estimates are in U.S. dollars ($US) and bids must be in even dollar ($) amounts. CNG will execute mail bids on behalf of mail bidders. Where competition permits, mail bids will be executed at approximately 10% over the next highest bid. Please note that bids below estimate are rarely reduced, due to heavy competition. In the case of identical bids, the earliest bid wins. A mail bid has priority over an identical floor bid. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken. CNG cannot assume responsibility for errors made by bidders. Check your bid sheets carefully.

7. A word on Reserves. CNG reserves the right to place a reserve on any lot. If a lot is reserved, it will not be in excess of the estimate, and ordinarily lots are reserved at 60% of estimate.

8. Buyers accepting commission bids from other parties do so at their own risk and will remain responsible to CNG for full settlement per the terms of sale for this auction.

9. Sales tax, postage, handling and insurance are the responsibility of the buyer and are added to all invoices where appropriate. Postage, handling and insurance for book lots will be invoiced separately from coin lots.

10. Prices Realised are published shortly after the sale and mailed to all bidders who have participated in the sale.

11. Bidders consent to waive any claim for incidental or consequential damages arising from this auction.

12. Any dispute regarding this auction shall be adjudicated only by a state or federal court located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and all bidders submit themselves to the personal jurisdiction of these courts for this purpose. In any dispute regarding this auction, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorney fees.

GOOD LUCK, and remember to mail your bid sheet early.

Bid sheets must be received by March 30, 1994.

($150)

The reverse type is identified as an adaptation of the denarius of Julius Caesar with the reverse of elephant trampling a serpent. Scheers describes this reverse as an elephant with indeterminate design above. Might we have an interesting propaganda point here? Caesar's design symbolizes Rome (the elephant) trampling her enemies (the serpent). Caesar's foes, the Remi, have a design with the serpent in a superior position above the elephant.

Mildenberg, "Kimon in the Manner of Segesta", in Proceedings of the 8th International Congress of Numismatics, 23 (same dies); Lederer 9. ($6000)

Although Mildenberg identifies the figures on this coin as the siblings, they more likely are their parents, the Trojan Segesta and Krimisos, a local river god. Segesta would reflect the Asian ancestry of the Segestans, who probably came from the region of Aeolis, and Krimisos standing by the boundary herm is a visual representation of the border between Segesta and Selinos, a source of frequent conflict for the two cities.

*The depiction of Zeus on the tetradrachms of Tarsos is directly influenced by the staters of the last Persian satrap Mazaios from that city. It seems likely that the same engravers were employed to produce Alexander's coinage. The oil lamp is the typical "Herodian" style with flaring spatulate spout, in this case chipped away from long use. Carbon stains around the wick hole suggest the lamp was in use long after it normally would have been discarded, and the generally worn condition of the coins suggest they were the meager savings of a poor family, most likely hidden away sometime around the time of the invasion and conquest of the Nabataean kingdom by Trajan in 106 AD. Few later Nabataean silver coins have survived. They are sometimes found mixed with hoards of denarii of Trajan and Hadrian, but most were used by Trajan to strike his extensive series of Arabia drachms commemorating his conquests. A unique intact hoard from a significant period of Near Eastern history.

Following the battle of the Milvian Bridge, Constantine struck two fractional issues at the mint of Rome, one marked XII (lot 833) and the other marked XVI (lot 832). The meaning of these marks on the reverses of these rare fractional issues has caused much discussion and debate. In his article, "An Issue of Follis Fractions with Denominational Marks by Constantine I at Rome," David G. Wigg concludes that at the time of issue, the follis was valued at 25 denarii, and that these marks are marks of value, a rare occurrence during the Constantinian time period. In his study, Mr. Wigg was able to locate 43 pieces marked XII (none with a left facing bust) and 27 pieces marked XVI.

A curious piece from the point of view of coining technology. It shows the concentric carved circles sometimes seen on Greek bronzes, assumed to be the marks of a lathe used to trim the flans before striking. It appears the lathe was set too deeply, cutting a hole in the center of the coin, which then had to be plugged before the coin was finished.

The Politikon coinage, issued both anonymously and in the name of Byzantine emperors, has never been examined fully. It was undoubtedly connected to the increasing western presence in Constantinople. By the 14th century the city held several foreign enclaves, especially of Venice and Genoa, which in many ways operated as independent territories of their homeland. Perhaps one or more of these communities took it upon themselves to issue a special currency for their own use, the presence or absence of an imperial type depending on the fluctuating relationship with the imperial throne.

Theodore Gabras recaptured Trebizond from the Turks in 1075, and was appointed Duke of Trebizond by Alexius I. Relations between Constantinople and the Duke gradually worsened, and by 1092 Theodore was virtual independent ruler of the city. He died in battle against the Turks in 1098, but his family held Trebizond until the middle of the 12th century.

Roman Cast Bronze Medallion,
Possibly From A Legionary Standard

1717. ROMAN. Circa late 2nd Century AD. AE Medallion 50mm (131.18 gm). Bare-headed draped bust of a young man right. Cast medallion, 8mm thick, high rounded border, with added engraved details, such as the close-cropped curly hair and the eye. The drapery on the shoulder is depicted as a blank wedge shape, and may never have been finished off. The reverse is blank, with only a centering point. Similarities of portraiture can be seen in other medallions of the last quarter of the 2nd century AD, with perhaps the closest resemblance being medallions of Commodus as Caesar under Marcus Aurelius. See J.M.C. Toynbee, Roman Medallions, pl.XXII, 3. Our piece, if indeed it does depict Commodus, would be somewhat later, circa 177-180 AD, when he was co-emperor with his father. At this time Commodus was accompanying his father in the wars against the Germanic tribes threatening the Empire. It has been theorized that certain medallions bearing imperial portraits were used in the legionary standards that accompanied the emperor on his campaigns. If it is intended as an imperial portrait, this massive piece would be suitable for such a use. Ironically, Commodus would immediately abandon all military operations upon the death of Aurelius, returning quickly to Rome and luxury. Minor wear at the high points, red-brown and green patina. Possibly a very important imperial artifact. ($3000)

1718. Roman Lead Bulla (Seal). Philip I? 244-249 AD. Pb 24mm (15.87 gm). Confronted radiate busts; the one on the left appears to be Philip, the one on the right an elderly man, possibly his father, Julius Marinus / Reverse blank. Possibly rare and historically significant. VF, cream colored patina. ($400)

1719. Roman Lead Bulla (Seal). The First Tetrarchy? 293-305 AD. Pb 22mm (10.97 gm). Conical uniface seal with four confronted laureate heads, possibly Diocletian, Maximianus, Constantius and Galerius. Near VF, gray patina. Rare and interesting. ($150)

1720. Roman. 1st Century BC. Lead Slingshot Bolt. Length 50mm. CN MAG / IMP. Probably from Spain, where the supporters of Pompey the Great fought the final battles of the struggle against the armies of Caesar. Cream colored patina, one edge dented from impact. Rare and historically important. ($200)

1721. Roman. Circa 2nd Century AD. AE Ring. Interior diameter 17mm. Broad oval bezel with a portrait of an Antonine period woman facing left. Possibly Faustina Jr. Light surface corrosion, tiny chip on bezel, tracing of gilding still present. Rare. ($250)

1722. Roman. Circa 1st Century AD. AE Fibula (cloak pin). Length 100mm. Bow shaped body, engraved decoration. Attractive green patina. Pin is broken. ($150)

1723. Roman. Circa 2nd-3rd Century AD. AE Fibula (cloak pin). Length 65mm. "Elephant trunk" body. Brown and green patina. Intact. ($100)

1724. Roman. Circa 2nd-3rd Century AD. AE Fibula (cloak pin). Length 55mm. "Elephant trunk" body. Green patina. Intact. ($100)

1725. Roman. Circa 2nd-3rd Century AD. AE Fibula (cloak pin). Length 50mm. "Elephant trunk" body. Green patina. Intact. ($100)

Interesting Roman Bronze Broach

1732. Roman. Circa 4th Century AD or later.  $\text{\textsterling}$  Broach. Length 33mm, surfaces tinned. Two interpretations have been offered; it is a representation of a military camp or city gate, or perhaps an aqueduct. A legionary badge? Found in England. Choice, worthy of further research. (\$600)

1733. Roman. Circa 5th Century AD or later. Iron key, length 100mm. Very complex teething arrangement. Overall corrosion, but the iron is stable and key is intact. Rare and unusual iron artifact. ($150)

1734. Lot of two Byzantine glass weights. 6th -7th Century AD. Cobalt blue glass, 20 mm (1.99 gm). EVITIPAXIOV, monogram. Jungfleisch, Froehner Collection, 14. // Light green glass, 20mm. (1.38 gm). NEIAOC, facing bust. Jungfleisch 19. Both eroded, the last quite heavily. 2 pieces. ($150)

Similar glass appliques, or prunts, were used on European glassware of the Medieval period. The designs of the eastern pieces show the converging influences of the region, from the classical west, Persia and the east, and Turkish peoples. This seated figure is clearly related to the seated figures seen on Turkoman coins. These pieces are sometimes called weights or tokens, but they are clearly decorative devices from glass vessels. Attractive and intriguing small artifacts.

1736. Glass Applique. Near East, Persian through Turkish periods. Yellowish glass, 32mm. Peacock right, with worm or serpent in beak. Choice condition, little wear with high relief and fine detail. ($250)

1737. Glass Applique. Near East, Persian through Turkish periods. Opaque white glass, 24mm. Nude winged figure right, holding bow. Good condition, detail weak, glass is crackled, probably due to exposure to fire. Scarcer type. ($250)

1738. TURKOMAN? Circa 12th-13th Century. Lead tessera or seal (?) 30mm (11.68 gm). Female riding tiger sidesaddle to left, with cloak blowing out behind her, and wearing crown with pendilia; star in field, border of spaced pellets. Uniface. VF, gray patina. ($150)

An enigmatic, difficult to classify object. Sayles and Spengler identify the "lionrider" on Turkoman bronze coins as an adaptation of the classical motif of Dionysos riding a panther. They also assert that stars placed in the fields of these coins convey an additional astronomical significance. In this case, the rider appears to be female (a maenad?) and rides a striped tiger. Her headpiece is reminiscent of the crowns worn by Byzantine empresses. The piece is flat and in low relief, and protrusions at top and bottom suggest it may have been part of a larger object. Unusual.

"My wish is that my Drawings, my Prints, my Curiosities, my Books - in a word, these things of art which have been the joy of my life - shall not be consigned to the cold tomb of a museum, and subjected to the stupid glance of the careless passer-by, but I require that they shall all be dispersed under the hammer of the Auctioneer, so that the pleasure which the acquiring of each one of them has given me shall be given again, in each case, to some inheritor of my own tastes."
